Online Safety Act implementation timescale, including OFCOM's consultation and report schedule

The Act received Royal Assent on 24 October 2023 and the timings below are drawn from Ofcom's roadmap (July 2022), letter to Peers (April 2023) and updates to their Roadmap (June 2023) and October 2024.

 NB dates beyond the date of this current update may therefore be indicative and subject to change. ***

Section 241 in OSA 2023 sets out which provisions came in at Royal Assent. Other duties will not be activated until a later stage.

- Ofcom's information gathering powers (esp related to preparing codes and guidance 91(5)(k-I)) in force immediately but Ofcom has confirmed in October 2024 that they will only start to use them in 2025, in advance of publishing consultation material for extra duties on category 1 companies
- Section 194 sets out the pieces of guidance that must be published "within 18 months" of the Act coming into force, marked ++ below
- Ofcom's "supervisory engagement" with high-risk & high-impact services re their systems and processes started immediately and was referred to in Dame Melanie Dawes' letter to Peter Kyle in Oct 2024 re the Southport riots.
- There are delays to two pieces of secondary legislation at the time of this update: categorisation thresholds; and super complaints.
